FSC numbers in Finland

FSC certification was adopted in Finland relatively late compared to our neighbouring countries. FSC forest management certification was introduced to Finnish forest owners on a wide scale only in 2011, as a result of our first national forest stewardship standard being approved. Currently there are around 1,8 million hectares of Finnish forests under FSC certification – or 10% of the total productive forest land.

The number of FSC chain of custody certificates has steadily increased throughout the years as the supply of FSC certified domestic raw materials has increased.
